

Best Wishes

At the end of the Spring 2013 semester, the McNair Program will say goodbye to the below graduates. This group includes:

Popy Begum has been accepted into both the University of Oxford's MSc program in Criminal Justice and Criminology and the University of Delaware's Ph.D. program in Criminology with full funding. Popy decided to attend the Oxford University in the fall of 2013.

Rebecca Cerezo has been accepted into the University of Rochester's M.A. program in Mental Health Counseling.

Nikoleta Despotova has won the prestigious National Science Foundation (NSF) Fellowship to fund her graduate studies. As a NSF Fellow, Nikoleta will pursue her Ph.D. in Psychology at John Jay College of Criminal Justice.

Levi DeCaille is still awaiting news from Masters Programs in Taxation.

Kamar-Jay Foster has been accepted to the Peace Corps volunteer program and will spend next two years teaching English abroad.

Khrys-Ann Josephs has been accepted to Boston College's Masters in Developmental Psychology Program.

Kemar McIntosh has been accepted into the Stony Brook University's M.A. program in Philosophy.

Nicolas Montano has won the prestigious Marshall Scholarship to study abroad in the United Kingdom. He is the first John Jay student to win this award. As a Marshall Scholar, Nicolas will pursue both his M.A. in Research Methods in Social Policy from the University of Liverpool and his MA in Criminal Justice Police at the London School of Economics.

Makeba Lavan has been accepted into CUNY Graduate Center's Ph.D. program in English with full funding.

Chassitty Whitman has been accepted into John Jay's Ph.D. program in Psychology with full funding.

Yuriy Zevelez will enter the NYPD full time as he contemplates applying to graduate school.